4. 'Range' by Joshua Goss located at Peakview Skate park – Staff recommends using Public Art Maintenance funds in the amount of $25,000 to make improvements to the sculpture titled "Range" to relieve safety issues caused by people loitering underneath it.
The Parks department has been challenged with people loitering under the artwork titled "Range" that Joshua Goss recently created and installed for the City of Greeley and it has now become a safety issue. Parks staff has had to deal with vandalism and the removal of items such as sleeping bags and remains of a small fire from underneath it. We feel the need to resolve this issue before cold weather moves in. In talking with staff and artist Joshua Goss, the best solution we see is to totally enclose the artwork. Joshua has suggested using non-polished stainless steel for color contrast (see description with images below). With the rise in costs for metal and the time he will have to spend on-site, we feel the proposed budget for the additional work of $25,000 is fair. Because the amount is more than 50% of the original sculpture cost of $47,000 and to move this along quickly, we have called this special meeting to vote to approve spending this amount from Public Art Maintenance funds. Staff and Joshua do not see a better option for resolving this safety issue. ACTION: vote to approve a budget of $25,000 to contract Joshua Goss to make reparations to 'Range' as proposed.

Meeting adjourned.

Hi Kim,

I really thought about the revision of this project hard. Below are some renderings of what I am proposing to enclose the Peak View sculpture. In my opinion this is the only way to go with it. The panels are 1/4" thick stainless steel. They will have dull finish for easier maintenance. (I looked into perforated mesh - it would be hard to fabricate and the cost is high.) There will be a maintenance access door on the right side. I will also have to consider a drip edge so that the Corten doesn't stain the stainless steel.

This revision of the project is going to cost $25,000.00. There is no simple solution. I will have to work onsite and custom fit all of the pieces.
Thank you,

Joshua Goss -
