5. Changes to the agenda: Mobility Oriented Development at Centerplace agenda item was moved to the first item by a motion and unanimous vote of the board members.
6. Old Business:
 - Mobility Oriented Development at Centerplace: Andrew Dresdner presented on the Center Place Mobility Hub and the upcoming small area plan for Greeley. he discussed mobility-oriented development, emphasizing the reciprocal relationship between transportation and development. He outlined plans to study the area from 35th Street to 47th Street and from 34th Avenue to approximately 25th Avenue, focusing on creating high-quality public spaces to increase community emotional connection to the area. They plan to begin community outreach in mid-November with an open house at West Greeley High School on November 19th, followed by a second phase of idea exploration in December and document production in late winter and spring. Andrew emphasized the importance of balancing the hub's function as a node and a place, and he presented examples of different design approaches. The output of the plan will be a document that becomes part of the comprehensive plan, guiding future development without forcing property owners to act.
 - By Laws: The board reviewed the By Laws and proposed several changes to the bylaws. The changes included reducing the number of board members from nine to seven, adjusting the time and address, adjusting the agenda and distribution timeline to the Thursday before board meetings.

- Summary of Rebranding Events: Hannah Feldmann provided updates on the rebranding process for Northern Colorado transit, highlighting the completion of three public meetings. A survey has also been done aimed at understanding community identity and transportation priorities. The consultants will synthesize this feedback to develop three design concepts, with input from stakeholders along US-34 and at UNC. Hanna noted that "NOCO" emerged as a popular naming theme, and while cost considerations exist for rewrapping buses, the focus will be on aligning new services and investments with the new brand direction. The discussion also touched on CDOT's planning efforts for US-34, where the rebrand and new route could influence future transit operations in the region.
- 2026 Work Plan Discussion: Will Jones was not present for this part of the meeting this agenda item was moved to November. The group discussed creating a shared calendar for events to ensure better communication and attendance at future events. Tom Donkle and James Baily proposed adding a CTAB led focus item for the meeting to be providing bus service for UCHealth on the west side of town as part of the Mobility Master Plan.
- CIP Written Report: Bhooshan Karnik gave a quick and brief update on the CIP project currently going on.
